Barton Heights was assisted to another higher notch on the ladder by the poor base running and at times indifferent playing of the Manchester aggregation. Score 3 to 2.

About three thousand people saw the two gaes. With the first one the fans were pleased, but the second game was not up to the standard. Richmond's team were pleased, but the second game was not up to the standard. Richmond's toam literally went up in the air, and before it descended to terra firma the Brownles had the game cinched so far as the run column was counted. Not before this season has Crawford allowed so many of the batters to connect with his south-paw drops. His curves were breaking badly and his team was not giving him the support that was needed.

And right here it had as well be said that Richmond needs some new players. It's all right to put enthusiasm into the team, and it goes a good ways towards winning the games, but unless the material is there, games will be lost. The nine did not strengthen any when it secured Hooker's services. Hooker is an erstwhile pitcher, but hasn't done any service in the box since his advent with the Richmond nine. He is not a good hitter, base runner or fielder. Twice yesterday afterneon he had an opportunity to come home, and two more runs would have been chalked up to the losing team's credit, had he run hases as a ball player should.

Manchester had several good chances to take the game from Barton Heights, but there was nothing doing. Once or twice, with proper base running, the score could have been fled. But with it sli this game was one to please the fans. The Manchester boys had Leake in the tex and he allowed but six hits, while hoxkins gave eight of the batters an epportunity to connect with his delivery. Barton Heights made one run in the second inning, and two more in the third. Minichester got two men across the plate in the second inning, but never did anything else.

tion, and the fielders handling the ball futchty, cleanly and intelligently. All three doubles were pulled off by the Northside men, one each in the first, third and eighth innings.

All the scoring was done in the first three innings. Neither team crossed the rubber in the first turn with the stick, but Manchester began the counting in the second. Edwards and Cheatham singled, but Edwards was thrown out at third, Swift gotting a life on a choice. Elimore hammered one out to right, which got by Booker, and both Manchesterians crossed the firing line in safety.

Lost Opportunities. Lost Opportunities.

Manchester had several excellent chances to the the score, and even win the game, but were impotent at the crucial moment to find the ball for safety. In the fifth inning Swift hit for three bases, but with no one out he falled to count, finally being thrown out at the plate on a poor attempt to score after a fly. A long outfield fly or a sacrifice would have scored the all-important run, but it never came. In the next two innings the Southsiders sent six flies to the outfield, but none fell safe. In the eighth inning Swift singled, and it looked eighth inning Swift singled, and it looked eighth inning Swift singled, and it looked bright for more runs, but Bache's beautiful running catch of Elmore's fly to short left and his quick and accurate throw to first called Swift in. Leake sent an easy one to Hoskins. Manchoster led off in the minth with two successive singles, but Hogan, who tried to score from third, found Mills' awaiting with the ball. It was slow and poor buse-running and a lack of sharp coaching.

Leake pitched a brilliant game, and Leake pitched a brilliant game, and should have won. For the last five innings he allowed but, one hit, and in the sixth and seventh innings he fanned four of the six batters who faced him. Barton Heights won the game by seizing their opportunities, and cinched it early by timely hitting, three of their five safeties being consecutive. Edwards and Bache did the stellar fielding.
